Whilst it is easy enough to list the early diesel Classes, once we get to the 1980s, when locos were being named every few days; when nameplates were being transferred from loco to loco, and sometimes to locos of different classes, it becomes more complicated ! The Railfreight era is even more confusing, so I hope my method of setting out the various sets helps you to order the version you require. Sets are listed in Class headings, and each set has a letter code to show which plates are included – many names will be available in more than one form depending on livery, and will require different plates in their set. IF IN DOUBT, PHONE FIRST !
NAMEPLATES are generally listed by their FIRST NUMBER
