

SOUTHERN RAILWAY & BR (SOUTHERN REGION)
NAMED LOCOMOTIVES
LOCOMOTIVES OPERATING on the ISLE of WIGHT
Engines were periodically transferred to the island, usually in pairs, to replace worn out ones that were about to be scrapped. It was the S.R.'s policy to transfer the nameplates and Bunker numberplates to the new arrivals. To assist modellers who wish to model the Island's locos at a given period , the dates listed below refer to the period the particular loco stayed on the Island. The nameplates listed below are of the later design , as fitted by the S.R. from October 1928. In B.R. days, the words " Southern Railway " were ground off the oval numberplate leaving just the " W " above the number. above the number.
A Pair of Nameplates & a Bunker Oval No.plate. Price:- £20

BULLEID BATTLE OF BRITAIN Class 4 - 6 - 2

Please read these Notes very carefully to ensure you order the correct version for your model.

All locos carried Plaques, except 34110 "66 SQUADRON"
Coloured Plaque Centres are not at present supplied for all Locos., but where they are available will be included at no extra charge. You may enquire which are available before ordering, as these are being added to the Range asap.

Some locos may not have carried their Nameplates in SR days, but as no firm identification has so far been confirmed, all sets can be supplied for SR and BR periods.

There were many changes to individual locos during their relatively short lifespan, so please CHECK YOUR PHOTOS before ordering ! Smoke deflectors; cab profiles & boiler tapers spring to mind, and then there were the tenders !

From new, up to and including 34070 had 4500g tenders, the rest having 5500g tenders. When the rebuilding of Light Pacifics started in 1957, Battle of Britain locos from 34071 upwards lost their original 5500g tenders to the Rebuilds , receiving in return the original high-sided 4500g tenders from the Rebuilt locos, which at that time were mainly West Countries. Further change happened when the tenders had their outside raves cut down, and dates of these cut - down tenders being attached are shown below. Few details are known for 34071 – 34110 .

These Notes and listings are given as a general guide only, and are not guaranteed to be correct or complete !

The Southern Railway was formed by the 1923 "Grouping" of three main Companies, the S.E. & C.R. with Works at Ashford; the L.B. & S.C.R. with Works at Brighton, and the L. & S.W.R. with Works at Eastleigh. During this " Early Maunsell Period ", locomotives carried oval numberplates on their cabsides, with letter prefixes above the numbers, "A" for Ashford; "B" for Brighton; "E" for Eastleigh, and "W" for locos operating on the Isle of Wight. The plates for each Section varied not just in the appearance of the numerals –Ashford's flat-topped "3" being the most glaring difference- but even regarding the shape of the plates. To complicate matters further, the batch of King Arthur class locos built in Scotland by the North British Loco Co had their own version , the " 7 " being significantly different.

The lettering of "Southern Railway" around the plates was actually the same as for the small "King Arthur Class" appendage panel on their castings of the nameplates for their batch of locos, and quite different to those on the Eastleigh-built locos !

Tender locos during the initial period of the Southern Railway carried a pair of letter-prefixed ovals, plus a third identical plate on the rear of the tender. Tank engines carried just the single plate on the rear of the bunker. In 1931 the SR renumbered its locos, by adding 1000 to the Ashford locos, and 2000 to the Brighton locos. This necessitated casting new plates , but in the case of the Eastleigh locos they simply chiselled off the "E" prefix. During this " Later Maunsell Period ", which lasted until c.1938 , tender locos carried just a pair of cabside ovals, whilst tank engines no longer carried a cast numberplate. Brighton removed worksplates quite early on , whilst Ashford and Eastleigh retained the distinctive Builders' plates on locos built by Outside Contractors, such as Dubs & Co. Some locos lost their plates over the years, and it is for this reason that further research is necessary before they can all be offered as part of 7mm sets of plates.

Please read these Notes very carefully to ensure you order the correct version for your model !
The Tender details are not guaranteed to be correct or even complete , so ALWAYS CHECK WITH PHOTOGRAPHS !
Locos Marked "(S)" carried a pair of Shields – these are supplied as 2-layer Shields, but at present the coloured Centres are not available for all Locos. They will be added to the Range asap, at no extra charge. Please enquire which are available before placing your Order.
NB: No.34040 did not get Shields until 1956.
CITY OF WELLS – Notches are cut out of some of the letters, as the real nameplates were fixed using the same bolt holes that had fixed its 1 st much shorter "WELLS" Nameplates –it is not an etching problem !
Nos.34023-9; 31-45; & 34091 onwards are only available as BR sets, as they were thought to have run without names In SR days. PRICES are as follows :-

BULLEID MERCHANT NAVY Class 4 - 6 - 2

The Nameplates are supplied with separate ½ -etched circular discs to facilitate the hand-painting of the House Flags , or the attachment of transfers (not supplied). The tapered cradles to mount the nameplates to the boilers of Rebuilt locos are not supplied, but should best be fabricated by the modeller – you cannot etch such things ! When ordering, PLEASE ADVISE WHICH TYPE OF TENDER your model has , as the sets include tender Water Capacity Plates for 4500g ; 5000g ; 5100g ; 5250g , or 6000g . I regret that no tender allocation details are available . The extra plates for Nos. 21C1 & 21C2 carried for their first two years are NOT available.

ex -SOUTH EASTERN & CHATHAM RAILWAY Locomotives

Worksplates : “CONSTRUCTED AT ASHFORD- SE&CR” or “REBUILT AT ASHFORD- SE&CR” - A Pair- Price: £14 These worksplates remained on locos throughout both Southern Railways days , and until withdrawal in BR days.

TITLED TRAIN HEADBOARDS

PRICES :- £7 each, or :-

any 3 for £18; or any 5 for £25

These are the Boards with Gill Sans lettering introduced by the newly formed British Railways from c. 1948

The NRM was particularly helpful back in the mid-1990s, when their huge collection was not on public display but in a warehouse on the other side of the City.
