"WARSHIP" Classes Please READ this CAREFULLY!

There is some confusion as to how many worksplates were carried , but my best information suggests that 4 were attached to the Class 41 batch, whilst just a Pair were sufficient for the Class 42 and Class 43 locos.

Please order as below, specifying 2 or 4 worksplates.

It has been suggested that some Warships at some stage carried a pair, or possibly even 4 shedplates. I have seen a preserved plate in a private collection purporting to have come off a Warship, but it has the "A" above the "82" ! Shedplates are not offered as part of these sets, but the usual steam shedplates should be ordered separately . They are listed under "Great Western Railway ( WR )" .

The above sets are either Single Liners or Double Liners. To accurately reproduce these uniquely varied designs, with their nameplate shapes and lettering sizes varying from plate to plate, it was necessary to refer to the original Works Drawings .

WORKS PLATES for UNNAMED LOCOMOTIVES of the CLASSES listed in this Range of 7mm scale plates.

Whilst individually numbered Worksplates have been designed for all of the listed Named sets, I have sometimes wondered if it was really necessary, as it is often very difficult to read the tiny numerals ! In the belief that most modellers will be perfectly happy to have the correct design of worksplates without bothering about the specific numbers I can now offer to supply worksplates for your unnamed

Locos as follows : A Pair of Worksplates : Price : £6
A Set of 4 Worksplates : Price : £10

When ordering these, you MUST say which Class of loco they are for, and in the case of large Classes where batches were built by different Companies, you MUST say which batch your model is based on if you wish to get the correct worksplates – there were MANY VARIED DESIGNS!!
